ARID LAND IRRIGATION.

Major Powell Gives His Ideas to the New York Chamber of Commerce.

NEW YORK, December 5.—Major J. W. Powell, of the United States Geodetic Survey, read a paper before the Chamber of Commerce this afternoon on "Irrigation and Lands of the West." He proposed that all arid lands be divided into drainage sections according to the natural water sheds, and that irrigation canals and reservoirs in each be constructed by the people therein, the money to be raised by the issuance of bonds, or in a similar manner, and that the only part which the general government should take in the matter was by the passage of laws to regulate the manner of procedure and distribution of water.

STORM DAMAGE.

The Webster Avenue Bridge in Dangerous Condition.

The rain has done some considerable damage in this city, and if it continues any length of time there will be considerably more damage done.

At Eighth and Washington streets the trench for the Piedmont Cable road has caved, making a hole in the street.

At Fifteenth and Grove streets a sewer has caved.

At the corner of Twenty-first avenue and East Fourteenth street there is a considerable washout.

A cave has occurred at Twenty-first avenue and East Twelfth street.

The sewer on the [illegible] over Broadway at Webster avenue has settled [illegible] sidewalk, and the Webster avenue bridge over the little creek is in a very dangerous condition, and more rain is likely to wash it away.

THE SICK AND WOUNDED.

Convalescents in Wards and Rooms of Dr. Woolsey's Hospital.

Dr. Woolsey's Hospital is full of convalescents now, and several patients who were thought to be on their death bed have by careful nursing and the energies of the doctor so far recovered as to be about ready to return to work.

Deputy Sheriff [illegible], who fell on a sidewalk some two weeks ago and fractured his [illegible], has been successfully operated [illegible] yesterday he was able to return to his house at Alameda. He will walk [illegible] his knee, however, [illegible].

Brakeman [illegible], who had his [illegible] crushed by a train a few days ago, is in a very critical condition. [illegible] [illegible] [illegible] [illegible] the doctor will [illegible] upon the [illegible].

Brakeman Klinger who was brought to the hospital several weeks ago suffering from a fracture of the skull and severe scalp wounds which followed [illegible] for a short while this afternoon. Klinger was not injured by falling from a hay wagon, as was once reported, but was struck by a water [illegible] at [illegible] and thrown from a train while leaning from the side of a car, looking toward the caboose. When brought to the hospital he was in a very serious condition.

Dr. Woolsey is still meeting with great success with his hot air treatment for consumptives. Several have gone away greatly improved and others who had lost their voices entirely have been cured. A number of consumptives are now undergoing treatment.

NOT POISON.

The Cause of S. L. Irish's Death and Mrs. Irish's Illness.

Dr. Woolsey, who attended S. L. Irish up to the time of his death on Tuesday night, says death was due to billious diarrhoea, probably caused by malaria. The doctor's statement therefore removes all suspicion of poisoning.

The funeral services took place at 2 o'clock this afternoon at the Chase Street Congregational Church in the presence of friends of the deceased, among them members of University Lodge, No. 141, of Odd Fellows, of which he was a member. The funeral service was conducted by Rev. G. W. Bothwell.

The pallbearers were Charles H. Hawley and A. S. Ward of University Lodge and E. L. Walcott and R. W. Brehm. Several handsome floral tributes were sent. One from Mrs. J. S. Kirmear being a large anchor of white morning glories and smilax. The interment was in the family plot in Mountain View Cemetery.

Mrs. Sullivan, Mrs. Irish's daughter, is much better today and will recover. Mrs. Irish is still sick and doubts are entertained for her recovery.

A New Corporation for Working the Renton Coal Mine.

Articles of incorporation of the Renton Coal Company have been filed with the County Clerk. The objects of the corporation are to acquire coal and mineral lands near Seattle, Wash., and such other property as may be required for mining and manufacturing purposes; to work mines of coal, iron, or other minerals and transport their products to market; to build, purchase or charter vessels for carrying coal and passengers and for a general transportation business. The capital stock is $3,000,000, divided into 30,000 shares of the par value of $100 each. The amount of stock subscribed is not set forth in the articles.

PAVING EIGHTH STREET.

Street Superintendent Wall's Answer to Fairchild's Complaint.

Superintendent of Streets Jesse Wall has filed an answer to the complaint of Contractor J. A. Fairchild asking for an alternate writ of mandate to compel him to sign the contract and accept the bond for paving Eighth street, between Franklin and Washington streets. The Superintendent recites that he has complied with the law in the matter and has allowed the property owners to do the work as required by law and has accepted a bond in the sum of $2000 for the faithful performance of the work. He denies the right of Fairchild to do the work and says that he has simply followed the provisions of the street law.

OVER THE DAM.

The Water in Lake Merritt Higher Than for Three Years Past.

The highest water seen in Lake Merritt for three years, according to Thomas Deasy, was in that inland sheet of salt water this morning. The water was even with the roadway on the east side of the lake, and at the Twelfth street dyke it overflowed in some places. No damage was done to the boats in the lake or other property, and all day long the flood gates have been wide open and the water pouring into the bay in torrents. The heavy rainstorm and unusually high tide is responsible for this very high water in the lake.

The High School Commencement.

It is probable that the date of the High school commencement will be fixed at Tuesday, December 10th, or Friday, the 20th, at the next meeting of the Board of Education. The alumni reunion will take place on the 27th inst.

Returned.

J. C. Smith of West Oakland has returned from his European tour, in the course of which he visited England, Scotland, France, Spain, and Italy. He visited the Paris Exposition, but is quite satisfied to return to the First ward, where he thinks Democrats are too scarce.

And the Rain Still Falls.

During the past twenty-four hours the water in Lake Chabot has risen six inches.

$75,000

The Sum That the Cashier of the Sergeant-at-Arms

Of the House of Representatives Gets Away With.

Several Committees Appointed in the House.

The President Asks the Senate to Confirm His Appointments.

Special to the Tribune by Western Union Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, December 5.—From present appearances Edward Silcott, cashier of the Sergeant at Arms of the House of Representatives, has fled, carrying off $72,000 of the funds entrusted to his care.

WASHINGTON (House), December 5.—The Speaker laid before the House the following communication from J. P. Leedom, late Sergeant-at-Arms of the House, directed to the Speaker.

"I regret to report that C. E. Silcott, late cashier of the office of Sergeant-at-Arms, has departed from this city without settling his accounts, and I have been unable to ascertain his whereabouts. There is a deficiency in the cash office. In view of these circumstances I respectfully request an immediate investigation of my accounts, under such action as the House of Representatives may take in the premises."

Adams of Illinois presented a resolution reciting the above facts and stating the amount of the defalcation to be $72,000 and providing for the appointment of a select committee by the Speaker to investigate and report.

Adopted.

The following were appointed: Adams, Stewart (Vermont), Payne, Reed (Iowa), Holman, Blount, and Hemphill.

The Speaker also appointed the following committees: On Rules—the Speaker and McKinley, Cannon, Carlisle and Randall.

On Accounts—Spooner, Boothman, Kelly (Kansas), McCord, Hansbrough, Hayes, Grimes, Lee, and Kerr (Pennsylvania).

On Enrolled Bills—Kennedy, Townsend (Pennsylvania), Moore (New Hampshire), Kilgore and Williams.

Adjourned until Monday.

Silcott was an employe who came here from Ohio, and was appointed by Leedom six years ago. He had good business qualities, and soon possessed himself of the unlimited confidence of his superior.

Last Saturday he notified Leedom that he was going to New York and would be back Sunday. A message was received from him, dated New York, Monday morning, saying that he had been detained, but would return that night. A similar message reached his wife in this city.

He did not appear Tuesday. Leedom was fearful that he had been overtaken by some accident, but to satisfy a rising suspicion he began investigating.

The information that Silcott had drawn his bank balance deepened these suspicions, and the inquiry was pursued. The enormous office safe could not be opened in a moment, as Silcott had the combination, but when entrance was finally effected it was found that some $30,000 set apart for the use of the buying teller, was intact.

The next inquiry was made at the Treasury Department, where Leedom was informed Silcott had called on Saturday and had drawn $75,000.

It was possible for him to draw this large sum without exciting comment, as he had for a long time been charged with the duty of collecting money with which the salaries of Representatives are paid.

Silcott is under bonds in the sum of $50,000. This is, however, an indemnity bond given to the Sergeant-at-Arms. Leedom, who is himself bonded in the sum of $50,000, is directly responsible for the shortage.

Leedom says that Silcott could have taken $100,000 just as easily.

A DAMP TENT.

Locomotive Eloquence of a Strange Speaker.

THE PARALYTIC FROM SACRAMENTO.

Continuation of the Extraordinary Performances by Mrs. Woodworth on the Board "Altar."

A drop of rain fell from the [illegible] sky last evening, and it was followed by another and another. The wind whistled dismally up Webster street and through the ruins left by the fire that nearly swept away Dietz Opera House. The wind drove great black banks of clouds across the sky, and the rain fell faster and faster.

A small boy braved the wind and splashed his way recklessly through the mud and water along Twelfth street. He whistled to himself and the rain splashed an accompaniment in the puddles in the gutter. Suddenly he stopped. The music of a brass band floated through the falling rain, and the small boy pricked up his ears and quickened his footsteps until he saw the Dietz Opera House band as it stood under the awning and tried to attract the crowd by the soulful strains of the Blue Danube waltzes. The small boy hesitated. A great doubt filled his mind and a dime danced uneasily in the bottom of his pocket. On one side of the street was the band, flaring lights and [illegible] mysteriously [illegible] known as Dietz Opera House with all its attractions of a hair raising sensation. On the other side was a small tent, its dripping flaps dancing in the wind [illegible] in the wind that whistled through the ropes. A thin thread of smoke arose from a stove pipe that protruded from the [illegible] end. It was Mrs. Woodworth's revival tent. He weighed the two carefully and finally Mrs. Woodworth and religion conquered. He waded through the small lake that surrounded the tent. At the door he was met by a stalwart young man who held the flap while a woman with her eyes closed and her hands waving convulsively in the air prayed. The prayer lasted about fifteen minutes, during which time no one was admitted to the tent save an elderly gentleman in a silk hat, whom the woman [illegible] and respectfully addressed as "Dr. Smith."

"We owe the great debt," prayed the woman, and the band across the street struck up "I Owe Ten Dollars to O'Grady."

Inside, the tent was lighted by two electric lights. Two old fashioned stoves, one stove at each end of the tent, served for the resting place of a dozen wet pairs of hob-nailed boots, the owners of which sp[illegible] [illegible]triously upon the top. In the center was a little, low, rough plank platform covered with a piece of faded carpet, and referred to by the faithful as "the altar," a few wisps of damp straw were scattered around on a board floor, on which stood a quantity of rough plank seats. The seats were occupied by a miscellaneous assortment of humanity, consisting mostly of foreigners.

The platform was occupied by Mrs. Woodworth, a woman of middle age, her black dress caught at the throat with a bit of white, and a black shawl was wound around her shoulders. Her hair was done up high on her head, and her rather plain features were relieved by a very fascinating smile. Two young ladies with hair a la Pompadour lead the singing in a mechanical way. The only other occupants of the platform were the woman who had prayed and the gentleman referred to as "Dr. Smith."

After the two young ladies had in a weary, expressionless way assisted the audience in starting a couple of lugubrious, rythmical, and nerve rending songs, a man with a strong Teutonic accent prayed for "the great power that they expected." Mrs. Woodworth employed herself by looking up some passages in the Bible and helping out the audience with an occasional "Amen." When the man had stopped praying, Mrs. Woodworth advanced to the edge of the platform and putting out her hands over the audience she stood there in absolute silence. For a while all was still and the rain pattering on the canvas above was the only sound that broke the painful silence. By and by the nervous members of the audience began to get uneasy, and then Mrs. Woodworth muttered in a sepulchral voice: "Oh Lord." In the intense silence it had an awe inspiring and cowing effect even upon the most irreverent hoodlum in the back of the tent, while it had a terrifying effect on the nervous believers. The invocation was followed by a series of groans and "amens" from various parts of the audience. One woman fainted, and several of the ushers carried her out, face downward, and with the utmost disregard for propriety.

Then began the sermon, and for an hour and three quarters she talked steadily and incessantly, like a locomotive settling down to a long run, growing faster and faster, until she was talking so fast that she dropped all the small words. The narrow gauge train from the wharf came along, laid over half an hour and went back, and still she talked. The Tubbs Hotel car left for East Oakland and returned and still she talked. The narrow gauge train made another round trip but there was no sign of stopping. She told about eternal life, and a careful tally of her remarks revealed the following statistics: In ten minutes she used the words "The gift of God is eternal life," nine times; "He that believed hath eternal life," nine times; these two with slight variations, seven times; "you have eternal life, six times; "eternal life" separately, fifteen times. She told the audience that the blind lead the blind into the ditch, and all were going to Hell." She did not approve of churches, and classified the church Christians as "hope so, guess so, and may be so" Christians. They hoped, they guessed, and may be they had salvation which is all wrong, as a man should know when he has salvation. She told how the names of all those who are saved must be on the book of life.

"Oh, how great a joy it is to know that your name is——"

Voice from the outside, "Mine, if this rain keeps up."

But at 9:45 she stopped, and a man with a John L. Sullivan like pair of shoulders and arms announced: "With the help of God we are going to have peace in this house, and we want this distictly understood."

Mrs. Woodworth brought forward an old man, whom she said is Melvin Denslow, who had been paralyzed for twenty years. Prayer had been offered up for him in the tent while he was at home, and while they were praying he got up and walked around the house. It was explained that he was formerly manager of the Sacramento Bee and is a prominent Sacramentan.

After two hours and a half of waiting the audience were rewarded for their patience, and the faithful gathered around the carpet covered altar and listened to a series of prayers. It was a little damp and cold for a very successful evening, and a small boy and a nervous girl were all that went up to the "altar" until just before the audience were dismissed, when "Dr. Smith" [illegible]. The doctor was a great success. For half an hour he kept beating the floor with his hands, while a crowd gathered around to look at him. Then the man who used to beat the bass drum in the Salvation Army, and who acts as chief bouncer for Mrs. Woodworth, fired the audience out into the night.

And the next day it rained.

TROUBLE IN THE CAMP.

Brother Woodworth and His Wife's Committee at Outs.

There is trouble brewing in the Woodworth camp. Mr. and Mrs. Woodworth have had a dissension which may result in a break in the [illegible]. The woman [illegible] together, however, [illegible] the fort against odds.

When Mrs. Woodworth came to this city she was accompanied by her husband, who generally managed the financial part of the meetings. A short time ago, however, a committee was appointed, and the members thereof have taken charge of the meetings and likewise take care of the ducats dropped into the hat.

Mrs. Woodworth favors the committee. Mr. Woodworth does not care for the committee. Owing to this little dissension a rumor was circulated to the effect that Brother Woodworth had purchased a ticket to St. Louis, and proposed to leave the ranks and take a trip East. Word came to him a few days ago that the committee contemplated cutting the tent in half and enlarging it in order that there would be a larger seating capacity, and that no one who desired to attend the meetings might be turned away. Mr. Woodworth turned up at the tent again, and [illegible] [illegible] [illegible] the committee [illegible] [illegible] a new tent. A reporter [illegible] at the camp this morning for the purpose of interviewing Brother Woodworth on his grievances. [illegible] [illegible] [illegible] [illegible] the tent occupied by his wife.

"Is the [illegible] between you and the committee?" asked the reporter of the husband of the woman who has the "great Godsend" [illegible].

"No trouble in the world," replied Mr. Woodworth.

"It is true that you have purchased a ticket for the East, and propose to leave the camp?"

"I would like to, young man. The less you say about our troubles the better it will be for us. It cannot do our work any good to have these things published in the newspapers. I might go East and I might not. I might go to Los Angeles selling books, and I might go some where else."

"Are you going to allow the committee to cut the big tent in half?"

"Well, all I've got to say is that no committee or any one else will touch that tent. That tent belongs to me and I paid for it in Chicago. It was bought for the purpose of holding meetings and belongs to the family. I have money and property in the East which needs my attention and I may be called to go at any time. But as to that tent I can say that no committee will have anything to do with it."

After making this explanation Mr. Woodworth withdrew to the cover of his canvas home to seek shelter from the rain.

MRS. WOODWORTH MUST LEAVE.

She Will Not be Allowed to Remain on the Twelfth Street Lot.

J. H. Davis, of the real estate firm of Clough & Davis, who has charge of the property of F. M. Smith at Twelfth and Webster streets, on which Mrs. Woodworth's tent is located, states that efforts are being made to dislodge her from that ground.

On Monday last he ordered her to depart, but the lady refused to go, claiming that she had written permission to remain, and at the same time she tried to have him arrested. He is of the opinion that Mrs. Woodworth has nothing but oral permission to occupy the grounds, and if such is the case she will be again ordered to leave. There has been some talk of instituting legal proceedings against her and the advice of Mr. Smith has been asked on the matter. If he is willing suit for ejectment will be commenced tomorrow. "She may demand a certain length of time to leave in," said Mr. Davis, and in that case I presume we shall have to let her stay. However, I can tell better when I receive a letter from Mr. Smith."

WRIGHT'S QUEST.

The Lessee of the Galindo Looking for a Hotel Thief.

"Wm. Gray" was the name registered on the big book of the Galindo Hotel three days ago by a man 5 feet 9 inches tall, with light complexion, light moustache and light hair, mixed with gray. He wore constantly a Prince Albert coat, tightly buttoned. He said that he is an insurance agent. Last evening he left his room with his valise wrapped in a paper. A few minutes after he left the hotel Mr. Hawley, of the firm of Bonham & Hawley, missed his overcoat, and reported the loss to B. Wright, lessee of the hotel. Mr. Wright, who had looked upon "Wm. Gray" with suspicion, immediately went to Gray's room and found that all this boarder's possessions had been removed. He hunted the streets for him, but the man had escaped to San Francisco. Wright believes that Gray is a hotel thief by occupation.

A Square Opposite His Name.

A sensation occurred yesterday in the United States District Court in the trial of Gabie Stein, accused of uttering counterfeit $5 gold pieces, when the prosecution offered a paper, confessedly written by Stein, bearing the names of the jurors sworn to try him, with strange marks by the side of the names. Max Wolff testified that Stein gave him the paper on the evening after the jury was impanelled and explained that the initials and signs opposite the names indicated by whom and what means the jurors were to be influenced in favor of Stein. One of the jurors, J. G. C. Bruns, is a resident of Oakland. By his name on Stein's list is a small square. Wolff testified that he does not remember [illegible] told him that that mark means that Bruns is square or that he had been squared, but he did tell him either one or the other. According to Wolff Stein, himself, was to attend to six of the jurors, Stein's wife to others, Wolff to others, and direct payment of money was to influence one.

IN THE ASYLUM NOW.

Mrs. Carter's Friends Seeking a Way to Release the Lady.

No Legal Powers by Which the Attendance of a Person [illegible] Can be Compelled.

The case of Mrs. Lizzie Carter, whose [illegible] was to be examined as to her [illegible] condition, was set for hearing in Judge Gibson's court in the Superior Court this morning. The attorneys and a number of witnesses were present in court, but the principal one, Mrs. Carter, was absent, since she is in the Stockton asylum for the insane, [illegible] commitment signed by Judge [illegible]worth adjudging her to be insane and dangerous to be at large. The attorneys for Mrs. Carter [illegible] that they were ready to proceed [illegible] case, even in the absence of [illegible] and asserted that the law did [illegible] require the presence of Mrs. Carter in court. Judge Gibson, however, took a different view of the matter and [illegible] that [illegible] try the case unless Mrs. Carter was present in court. [illegible] question [illegible] pending before the court. [illegible] His Honor [illegible] the [illegible]. She [illegible] of a commitment [illegible] [illegible] until [illegible].

The friends of Mrs. Carter [illegible] take a new tack. [illegible] theory that [illegible] was not insane at the time she was committed [illegible] not get her [illegible] persisted in this [illegible]. Accordingly another application was made [illegible] under a section of the statute which provides that the friends of an insane person may take charge of such person, providing that it can be shown that they can properly care for such person. On this application Mrs. Boulton and P. H. McCreet gave testimony, and stated that they would care for Mrs. Carter and see that she had a good home. Judge Gibson then made an order directing the Superintendent of the Asylum to deliver Lizzie Carter to the custody of Mrs. Boulton. The lady armed with this order, will go to the asylum tomorrow and demand the release of Mrs. Carter. Then the lady will be brought into court and an application will be made to restore her to capacity. The question of her sanity will then be discussed.

Dr. Poulson and his wife were present in court and were much interested in the proceedings. It was he who caused Mrs. Carter to be adjudged insane and consequently he is not anxious to see her released. The contest promises some rich developments concerning transactions between Dr. Poulson and Mrs. Carter.

Unitarian Church Fair.

The rain does not dampen the zeal or abate the cheerfulness of the ladies of the Unitarian Church fair in Simmons' Hall today. The general appearance of things is decidedly pretty, and there are some novelties. Mrs. John P. Irish assisted this evening by the genial colonel, has a "soap bubble table"—what ever that may mean. Mrs. Stephen Gage, as President of the society, is actively occupied. Mrs. John Yule, Mrs. A. C. Schlessinger, Mrs. William Booth, Mrs. N. W. Spaulding, Mrs. A. Gorrill, Mrs. C. Robbins, Miss Lottie Alexander, Mrs. A. G. Freeman, Mrs. G. Y. Loring, Mrs. L. Mannel and other have tables and serve tables. There will doubtless be a large attendance this evening.

A Distressing Mud Hole.

Residents of the neighborhood of the corner of Broadway and Prospect avenue complain at what they deem the unnecessary inconvenience caused by the contractors at work fitting Broadway to grade. The contractor pulled up the boards of the sidewalk near the Grant school, plowed the street, and has not replaced the boards. Here the mud is knee deep and pedestrians cannot keep out of it. If the vexed citizens call the attention of the Superintendent of Streets to their trouble undoubtedly he will cause a temporary walk to be laid over the plowed ground.

A Valuable Work of Reference.

One of the most valuable periodical works of reference is the "Spanish American Manual," issued yearly by the Bancroft Company of San Francisco. The editor is Thomas Savage, for twenty years United States Consul in Spanish-American countries, and the work contains a very full account of the resources, commerce, industries, laws and regulations, currency and exchange of Mexico, Central America and the several countries of South America, all in compact shape and indexed for reference.

Mr. Grosjean Returns.

Charles A. Grosjean of 518 Third street returned to his home yesterday as suddenly as he had disappeared two days before. He came in on the overland train yesterday morning from Sacramento, and when asked where he had been replied that he had gone to Sacramento on business and had nothing further to say. His sudden disappearance caused his family considerable anxiety, as he did not inform them of his intended departure.

JUDGES HIMSELF.

Alexander Laidlaw Pleads Guilty to Drunk.

HE FINES HIMSELF FIFTY DOLLARS.

A Sensation in the Police Court When the Judge Orders Himself Under Arrest.

It was not two or three days. It was a great deal more than that, over eight [illegible] that [illegible] that Police Judge Laidlaw fined Alexander Laidlaw for being drunk.

There was a dead silence in the Police Court this morning when Police Clerk O'Brien had called the last name on the calendar. Would [illegible] or would it not? Would Police Judge Laidlaw sentence himself for being drunk? Everybody was wet [illegible] expectancy. [illegible] [illegible] the [illegible], but that was all that disturbed the [illegible]. Judge Laidlaw settled [illegible] and [illegible] in a rather subdued voice:

"[illegible] Alexander Laidlaw [illegible]."

Sam Mitchell shifted [illegible] and [illegible] something to Police Clerk O'Brien.

"Mr. Laidlaw [illegible]."

[illegible] the Judge [illegible].

"[illegible] Clerk [illegible] the [illegible] Alexander Laidlaw [illegible]."

"[illegible]

"[illegible]

"That [illegible]

"I, who have sat here day after day, week after week, and month after month, dispensing justice with an honesty of purpose, sense of justice and every other motive of right that can possibly actuate an honest [illegible] by this greatest offense [illegible].

"Is it right? Is it just? Is it honorable? Is it honest to myself or to the people of this city, to permit myself to go unpunished for the commission of an offense for which I punish others daily? My answer is, No! Emphatically, No!

"For a tramp or a vagrant, lost to the world, to his home, to his family, to decency and shame, there may possibly be some excuse in the commission of an offense of this character, but to one of my past standing in this community there is no excuse. But for the sake of one I hold most dear and who inculcated those early precepts which I shall never forget, I deem myself in duty bound to show my manliness and admit frankly and sincerely that I have committed a wrong and ask forgiveness for the same.

"I have made this statement freely and voluntarily, and with a proper consideration of the fact that many a better man than I has put 'an enemy in his mouth to steal away his brains,' but I sincerely hope that this affair may serve as a warning to all such as are beset by that curse of modern civilization, drink.

"Upon a repetition of this offense I shall not ask for mercy, neither will I expect it.

"In conclusion I wish to exonerate and exculpate all persons from any blame, whatsoever, whose names have been coupled with mine in this unfortunate affair.

"The sentence of the court is that the defendant pay a fine of $50, with the usual alternative."

After court had adjourned Judge Laidlaw was congratulated on his course, while Prosecuting Attorney Church, thinking of his battery, muttered.

"He saw me $20 and went in, $30 better."

Judge Laidlaw has determined never again to drink intoxicating liquors.

THE HIGH SCHOOL.

A Compliment Paid to the Drawing Department.

Professor McChesney is elated over the compliment paid the drawing department in the High school by the Grand Jury in their report. In speaking about the High school the report says: "We saw in this school one of the best conducted mechanical and architectural drawing departments, which will fit the student to enter on the active duties of life in these departments of industry with success, and cannot be too highly commended."

Miss Mollie Conners is at the head of the department of drawing, and feels greatly pleased over the neat compliment.

The School of Design.

At the opening of the sixteenth annual exhibition of the California School of Design at the rooms of the Art Association in San Francisco last evening Sir Arthur Sullivan's operetta "Box and Cox," was given by the three gentlemen who sang it at the last high jinks of the Bohemian Club, Louis Sloss Jr., H. M. Fortescue and F. G. Mills. H. J. Stewart, M. B., directed the music. The Avery medal for the best general excellence and progress in oil painting was awarded to a young Japanese, Oroka Soyeda, Miss M. Froelich and J. M. Gamble receiving honorable mention. The Alvord medal for best drawing in the competitive class was awarded to Miss Isabel Hunter, Miss C. E. Bodwell and R. E. Robinson receiving honorable mention. The exhibition will continue until Saturday evening.

Loses the Diamonds.

Some weeks ago Miss Laura Keefe, formerly acting as "housekeeper" for John Henry Church, got out a search warrant to secure about $800 worth of jewelry from Mrs. Lena Pico Church, the latest wife of the often married John Henry Church. Yesterday Judge Lawler decided that the valuables belong to the wife by right of gift. This jewelry has been handed from housekeeper to mistress and mistress to wife for many years by Church.

The Blair Ranch.

Christian Miller, who has conducted the dairy business formerly owned by the late Walter Blair for some time past, will soon remove to new quarters beyond West Berkeley, where houses and sheds have been put up. The old Blair ranch at Piedmont will be greatly enhanced in value by the cable road which will pass through it, and it is believed the property will be placed on the market.

HEALTH HINTS.

Some Suggestions Regarding The Treatment of Coughs And Colds.

A cold is usually the symptoms of some disease, the character of the cough denotes the nature of the disease. A cough should never be suppressed but the disease cured, then the cough will stop itself. The most common disease that causes coughing, is a cold. When a person takes cold, many of the air cells of the lungs become obstructed with mucus, the coughing is an effort of nature to relieve the lungs and that is the first and most important thing to be done in treating a cold. The lungs should be relieved and the secretions opened, which is the best accomplished by giving Chamberlain's Cough Remedy. It is the only preparation in use that will cause the expulsion of mucus from the air cells of the lungs. It also renders the mucus less tenacious and easier to expectorate and opens the secretions, aiding nature in relieving the lungs and freeing the system of all morbid matter, effectually curing the cold. It acts in perfect harmony with nature and is the only preparation in common use that does. Nature's way is to open the secretions, render the mucus less tenacious and easier to expectorate and relieve the lungs and that is precisely the effect of Chamberlain's Cough Remedy. You ask: "How do we know that is nature's way?" Because if your system is strong enough to stand it nature, will in time relieve it of the cold without the aid of any medicine and that is just the way it goes about it, but many an "iron constitution" has been severely racked by leaving nature alone and unaided to do the work. No one can afford to neglect a cold, as catarrh and chronic bronchitis are caused by neglected colds.

The event of the week has been the visit of the Harbor Lodge Degree Team to the sister lodges in Vallejo. The team left Oakland on the 4:30 P. M. train on Saturday. Among the friends accompanying them were: P. G. Chandler of Enterprise Lodge, P. G. Edwards and G. Anis of Porter Lodge; D. D. G. M. James Taylor and P. G. Lucas of Orion Lodge. Orion Lodge has recently secured paraphernalia similar to that in use in Harbor Lodge, and are making praiseworthy attempts to improve their degree work.

At Vallejo Junction a delegation from San Pablo and Golden Gate Lodges of Vallejo met the brothers, and on arriving at North Vallejo escorted them to the Howard House, where supper was waiting. After a merry time at the supper table the members proceeded to San Pablo Hall, which is one of the finest Odd Fellows' halls in the State.

The three degrees were conferred by the team, and the boys put their best foot foremost and did some of the best degree work ever witnessed. On leaving the hall at the close of the meeting the large audience broke out into cheers for Harbor Lodge. The assemblage then repaired to Golden Gate Hall, where the banquet was spread, and after partaking of the good things which the Vallejo Odd Fellows know how to provide, speech making was indulged in. Past Grand Al Hodges, assisted by District Deputy Grand Master H. D. Richardson, acting as master of ceremonies. The Harbor Lodge Glee Club supplied the music and were repeatedly encored. Addresses were made by District Deputy Grand Master Taylor, Past Grands Lucas, Chandler, Rogers, Englebright, Richardson, Graham, Cohen, and by a large number of visiting members from Napa, Calistoga, Crockett, Livermore, and Benicia. The members of the team, who remained in Vallejo over Sunday, visited the navy yard after divine service, and spent a pleasant afternoon in the fresh air of the island, and enjoyed some select music at the residence of Brother Captain Shaw. The brothers returned home greatly pleased with the hospitality and friendship of the Vallejo brethren.

Brooklyn Rebekah Degree Lodge, No. 12, gave their monthly social at their hall on Monday evening, at which the following programme was rendered: Piano solo, Mrs. F. W. Davis; recitation, Miss Gussie Williams; song, Mrs. N. Walker; recitation, Mrs. Kidd; song Miss Cora Morse; recitation, Master Higby.

Improved Red Men.

Saturday evening Pawnee Tribe, No. 67, was instituted at St. George's Hall, Alameda, by George H. Buck, G. S., and the Great Chiefs. The two tribes in Oakland—Tecumseh, No. 62, and Gray Eagle, No. 65—were present in a body, and also a large delegation from the tribes in San Francisco. The new tribe starts under the most favorable auspices, the personnel of the members being of the best, and no doubt in a short time it will be a large and flourishing branch of the order. The charter list contains forty-five names. The Chiefs for the first term are bright, energetic gentlemen, and will do all their power to further the interests of the tribe and the order of Alameda.

American Foresters.

The third annual entertainment and ball of Court Pride of Alameda took place last Saturday evening in Park Opera House, Alameda. A very meritorious vocal and instrumental programme was rendered, followed by dancing till a late hour, refreshments being served during a recess. The Committee of Arrangements of the pleasant and successful affair were: S. G. Mitchell, C. H. Bremer, C. H. Lindmann, E. Kaufman, J. D. Nield, C. G. Smith, H. K. Starkweather, H. S. Alexander.

A Fraternal Directory.

The Bancroft Company have just issued a book containing 240 pages, entitled "Illustrated Fraternal Directory, Including Educational Institutions." As set forth in the title page, it gives a "succinct description of the aims and objects of beneficiary and fraternal societies and a brief synopsis of the leading colleges and private seminaries, compiled from official records and social archives." The editorials, sketches, and biographies are well written, and the arrangement, typography, and printing are done in the best manner. This work is in keeping with the genius of this age, and will be valuable as a book of reference, and will add much to the popular and attractive literature of this commonwealth. It can be procured of the Bancroft Company at $2 a volume.

The Wicked Marble.

A grave question which appears to have created some dispute in the closing hours of the Santa Clara Teachers' Institute last week was disposed of by the following preamble and resolution:

> WHEREAS, There is a general practice among the boys in all our schools of playing marbles "for keeps;" and whereas we believe that practice to be pernicious, baneful, and fraught with evil results, being nothing more than the terrible evil of gambling in its incipiency; therefore be it
> Resolved, That we will, to the best of our ability, use our utmost endeavor to suppress the evil at all times in the play ground.

Superintendent Russell was of opinion that playing marbles "for keeps" was the first step on the downward path that leads to the stock exchange, the poker table, and the faro layout. It was gambling in the germ, the bacillus, so to speak, of the gambling habit, which, he says, "permeates society in California, and even our churches are not free from it." From marbles to turkey raffling is but a short and easy step. He could see no difference between playing marbles for an agate worth 25 cents, and shuffling cards for a coin of the same value. He concluded: "It is our duty to blot out this curse, if we can."

State Superintendent Hoitt "remembered the time when he was a stock-broker and he came to the conclusion during those seven years that there was considerable gambling done then, yet he had five ministers on his books. Dealing in real estate is a game of chance, a great many people say, but legitimate investment is one thing and playing these chance games is another."

Just at that time Mr. Hoitt had to catch a train which perhaps prevented him from drawing the obvious moral that all this wickedness, of which he made a part, was due to the original sin of playing marbles for keeps. Having reformed—there being no longer any money in stock-broking—it would be interesting to hear him trace the connection.

Professor Manzer is a strict disciplinarian. In fact, he looks upon a marble in about the same light that Dr. Dille regards a pack of cards and he prohibits all playing with them. He, too, like Mr. Hoitt, appears to know how it is himself, and he gave an instance in his own experience where a pupil had thrown up to him the accusation that he himself had invested in pools in a horse race and thereby justified himself in playing marbles for keeps. He had tried a plan of confiscating the marbles of those who play for keeps, and has accumulated between 2000 and 3000, but still the boys continue the evil practice.

After Professor Manzer had related his experiences as a collector of marbles Miss Etta Herrmann sought to broaden the plane of the discussion by the charge that the boys were now playing even with tops "for keeps" and she wanted the demoralizing top included in the same sentence of condemnation with the depraved marble. Strange to say Miss Herrmann's suggestion was treated with cold neglect and the discussion promptly died a natural death. They draw the line at marbles.

If it is not impertinent one might inquire: 'By what right does Professor Manzer steal the boys' playthings?'

PERHAPS the most remarkable plan formulated by the negroes of the South to get even with their white oppressors is the proposal to prevent their own enumeration in the census next year, and by this means to reduce the basis of representation in Congress in the South. There is something to be said for the plan, for the South under the present enumeration has twenty-nine representatives in virtue of its negro population, and these are held by a fraud on the nation so long as the negro is not allowed to vote.

JOHN MORLEY, the English statesman, puts the case on the eight hour law very forcibly and briefly: Either, he says, you mean to allow working overtime or you do not. If you do, your Eight Hours' bill is only a wages bill. You enact that extra payment for overtime shall begin at the ninth hour instead of at the tenth. If you do not, you either compel employers to pay nine hours' wages for eight hours' work, or you peremptorily knock off eleven per cent. from the artisans' pay.

A GERMAN paper gives the following table from authentic sources of the comparative cost of European armies:

COUNTRIES.	Payment per head of population for national defense—shillings.	Percentage of revenue expended on national defense—shillings.
1. Prussia.	9.10	12.43
Austria	7.86	12.21
3. Italy	10.26	15.75
4. France	18.66	17.50
5. Great Britain	16.12	19.27
6. Russia	8.51	25.14

It is remarkable that England, with an insignificant army as armies are counted in Europe, should spend so much. Of course the greater part of the money goes to support the navy, but there is serious doubt as to the efficiency of this arm of the service. It is equally remarkable that the Prussian army, confessedly the most effective force in European military calculations, should cost so little, comparatively speaking.

EVEN thirty years ago, as we learn from extracts from the old files of the Sacramento Union, that city had acquired a reputation which has stuck to it ever since for cause. A young man from Philadelphia who was about to come to Sacramento in 1859 called on his clergyman, who endeavored to dissuade him from this dangerous course. We quote the closing words of the interview:

> The man who goes to Heaven by way of Sacramento is sure to have twice as high a place in eternal glory as he who reaches Paradise through the quiet portals of Philadelphia or Connecticut.

It was a hard road to travel.

The Work of the Grand Jury.

San Francisco Bulletin.

At 11:15 A. M. today the Alameda county Grand Jury presented its report in Department 2 and was discharged by Judge Gibson. It has been in session about two months, at a cost of $57 per day, and the aggregate cost will be in the neighborhood of $3000. No indictments have been found, although a number of cases were investigated. The report is principally taken up with paragraphic reports of the condition of the various county and municipal offices and institutions. The law provides for the drawing of two Grand Juries a year, but as far as Alameda county is concerned, one of them, at least, is a useless expense and waste of $2500 to $3000 of the public money annually. The Jury just discharged is the first one impaneled in 1889, and another must be drawn before the end of the year.

The Hoodlum and the Hoodoo.

Alta.

Mrs. Woodworth is conducting religious meetings in a tent in Oakland, and has raised the biggest rumpus ever heard on the coast. She has scores of victims under "the power" every meeting, but we observe that she has not yet paralyzed the crowds of hoodlums who infest her tent. If she will strike them dead she has only to ask for what she wants if she can't see it.

Heavens!

New York Sun.

Our esteemed contemporary, the Philadelphia Inquirer, publishes a symposium on the question, "Is Heaven a Place?" The general consensus of opinion seems to be that it is no such place as Philadelphia.

Prisoned.

Sweet voices from the woodland call to me
To drop my heavy load and come away
And rest in Nature's loving bosom—free
From all the cares that fret my dreary day.

O, not for me the music of the rills;
Within the city walls I toil apart,
I may not see the "splendor of the hills,"
But I labor here in darkness, sad at heart. —C. K.

ARTHUR BROWN ABROAD.

European Trip of an Architect and Engineer.

Arthur Brown, Superintendent of the Bridge and Building Department of the Southern Pacific Company, and Mrs. Brown, have returned to their home on Filbert street after an absence from this city of six months, during which they have traveled in Europe. This trip is the first real vacation Mr. Brown has had for twenty-five years. Mr. and Mrs. Brown first visited Great Britain, visiting the cities and other places of interest in England, Ireland Scotland and Wales. Naturally Mr. Brown's attention was directed to architecture and engineering in the old world. He inspected with great interest the great bridge over the Forth, which, with viaduct approaches, is more than a mile and a half in length. The bridge, exclusive of the approaches, is 5340 feet 9 inches long, more than a mile. This distance is spanned by three vast cantilevers, with two wide spans, each 1710 feet long in the middle part, and two lesser cantilevers are at each end, each 680 feet long. The span of 1710 feet is a greater distance between supports than any other bridge in the world, the distance between the piers of the East river bridge being 1600 feet. In the Forth bridge each of the cantilevers rests in four circular piers, faced with granite, each pier being forty-nine feet in diameter. From each pier rises a steel column, twelve feet in diameter, to a height of 361 feet above sea level. Add to this ninety feet of depth of foundation, and the total length of pier and column is 451 feet, a dimension greater than the height of St. Peter's at Rome.

In architecture Mr. Brown thinks New York surpasses any European city. The buildings are more substantial and handsome in appearance. Of all European cities the tourist preferred Venice, the unique and beautiful. As usual with Californians who go abroad, Mr. Brown was never so well satisfied with his own State than after seeing Europe, and Oakland never looked equally attractive as when he returned from his tour.

Speaking of the projected bridge across the Straits of Carquinez, Mr. Brown says that he presumes a bridge will be built there some day, probably from South Vallejo, but the ferry from Port Costa to Benicia has been working satisfactorily for ten years, and probably will be sufficient for the traffic for five or six years to come. He thinks that three or four million dollars would build a bridge here. Soundings had been taken some years or more ago by Eastern bridge builders who had estimated on the cost. He believed that with such plants as there were in the East they could build such a bridge by contract at less cost than the company could construct it. Mr. Brown thought that a low bridge with a draw could be more easily constructed, and would be more convenient than a large bridge, provided the Government would permit a draw being thrown across the straits.

Mr. Brown carefully noted railroad construction when abroad. He found the stations, crossings, bridges and viaducts more substantial and handsome than in this country, but the ferries here are great improvements over European ferries. On their way home Mr. and Mrs. Brown visited many places in Canada and this country. They arrived in sound health and glad to get home, but with perfect satisfaction with their trip.

A TRANSACTION IN BLANKETS.

A Trade Followed by Another Transaction in Coats.

The charge of violating an ordinance for sleeping in a barn stood against the name of Frank Lee on the prison register last evening. This morning the charge of petty larceny was added, and all because Detectives Holland and Storey had been on the trail of poor Frank Lee. The two detectives found that Frank Lee had been very enterprising. He had gone to the shop of O. Emlay & Son and had stolen a horse blanket therefrom. Then he went around the corner and impressed a bootblack into his service. The bootblack took the blanket and went around and tried to sell it back to Mr. Emlay, and while this was going on Lee tried to steal another blanket. Then they found that he had also stolen a rubber coat, and Mr. Holland soon found an owner for it. J. C. Hanna, a clerk at Nordhausen's store was sure the coat belonged to the firm by which he is employed, but in the mean time Martin Beel, of Harris & Beel, identified the coat just as positively as did Nordhausen's clerk, and upon last accounts Chief Tompkins was envying Solomon in having so easy a matter as the ownership of that baby to settle.

BOUGARD'S CONTEMPT.

He Asserts That He Did Not Disobey Judge Gibson.

Solomon Bougard was before Judge Gibson this morning to show cause why he should not be punished for contempt of court for refusing to give up the possession of premises awarded to his wife when she was granted a divorce. Bougard filed an affidavit wherein he set forth that he had no idea of disobeying the order of court, and that the premises in question had been sold by his wife to one Pantoskey, who is in possession of the property and collects the rents thereof. He did not attempt to retain possession of the land, but is there simply as a tenant of Pantoskey. On this showing the case was continued for further hearing.

Sudden Death of William Steele.

William Steele a well known line man, formerly in the employ of the Western Union Telegraph Company at Lathrop and San Francisco, but recently with the San Francisco Fire Alarm Telegraph Company, died suddenly this morning while at breakfast in a restaurant on Montgomery street, near Jackson, in San Francisco. He is said to have a sister living in Oakland, but whether he is married or unmarried cannot be ascertained. Unless relatives claim the remains they will be taken in charge by the San Francisco Fire Alarm Telegraph Company. The body is now lying at the San Francisco morgue.

A Clerk's Failure.

Henry Van Winkle, a clerk, is insolvent, his liabilities amounting to $148, with no assets. His creditors residing in this city are: Bennett & Son, $16 00; C. Clyde $7 30; L. Peres & Co., $84; M. O'Connell & Co., $3 40; H. and S. Neilson, $15 45; Agard & Co., $110 70; E. F. Delger, $16 08; M. M. Samson, $12 10; Mr. Thompson, $15 50; Taft & Pennoyer, $9 35; C. W. Scott, $20; Hamilton & Co., $12 50; E. Hook, $31 50; C. A. King, $15 10; See Wing, $10; Oakland Gas Light Company, $16 85.

She Wants Her Child.

Mrs. E. Z. Packard has been granted a writ of habeas corpus on behalf of her child, Elsie Packard. The petitioner states that the child, who is 4 years of age, is restrained of her liberty by Mrs. Cline or Porter in this city, and that the father of the child recently ejected the mother from the house and placed the little one in the custody of Mrs. Cline or Porter.

Granted a Divorce.

Judge Ellsworth has granted Kate Shepherd a divorce from John E. Shepherd on the ground of extreme cruelty. The custody of the minor child is granted to the plaintiff and the defendant is ordered to pay $30 a month alimony.

The New High School.

The plans for rebuilding the High school are now ready, and the contractors are figuring upon them, and bids will be presented at the next meeting of the Board of Public Works.

Dudes Don't Count.

He was a typical dude, of New York importation, and his make up was something that would frighten even a policeman. The tails of his tightly buttoned cutaway hung down far below the bottom of his wine colored overcoat in the lapel of which was fastened a bunch of violets. His patent leather shoes were scarcely visible under his baggy trousers and he carried the daintiest stick ever seen. But he was not a success on Broadway. The first girl he tried to mash advised him to go to O'Connor's and get a new suit made from the latest fall and winter goods recently received direct from Paris, and the dude straightway made tracks for 1010 Broadway.

William T. Gibbs' exhibit at the State fair. This gentleman, who has been appointed general agent for the State of California, made a very fine display of Douds' combination locks, which attracted the attention of hundreds of people who thronged the pavilion day and night. A public test was made by a bank lock expert, who failed to open the lock after a trial lasting over three hours and working out 72 combinations. No one can open without knowing the combination, which is only given to those who are to use the locks. Call and examine them. William T. NEW OFFICERS OF OAKLAND PARLOR.

A Paper by Frederick S. Stratton Upon Men of Genius and Influence in This Community.

There were high times last night at California Hall, and the hundred or so Native Sons who participated will long remember the occasion and never have cause to regret that they braved the storm which raged outside to be present at the meeting. The occasion was the election of officers by Oakland Parlor, No. 50, followed by an impromptu entertainment of music, speeches and songs, sparkling with wit and overflowing with humor.

The new officers are: Past President, J. E. Morris; President, George E. Meredith; First Vice President, J. H. Ames; Second Vice President, George W. Freck; Third Vice President, J. N. Ziegenfuss; Recording Secretary, Frank C. Jordan; Financial Secretary, Chester Doering; Marshal, R. M. Clement; Surgeon, Dr. E. J. Overend.

The entertainment was followed by the exemplification of the Hyngeon Degree, in which C. M. Belshaw and C. F. Montgomery of Antioch officiated, assisted by W. A. Newcomb and Alvin Webster of Suisun, and Messrs. Fitzgerald and Morris of this city.

The victims for the occasion were Eugene C. Reilly and Cal Ewing, and as these young gentlemen have not reported at their respective places of business today it is safe to say that the Hyngeon Degree is a howling success. The others present did not reach home until nearly dawn this morning, and as a whole the evening's entertainment was grand beyond comparison.

During the evening the following paper was read by Frederick S. Stratton:

When your President wrote several days ago requesting me to present any ideas which might prove of interest, the selection of a topic became of moment, and the question addressed itself to my mind what, abstractly speaking, where no special occasion prescribes differently, and where, like myself, the speaker lacks the power to transmit wit or humor what in such a case, is the best choice for general remarks or discussion? My answer would be, "some man." We all were taught at school those words by Pope: "The proper study of mankind is man," and many of you who have read Carlyle's "Heroes and Hero-worship" will remember that he introduces his theme by declaring that the great man can be considered but with profit and that no one should grudge such society and to wander in such a neighborhood for a while.

Generally speaking, the favorite field for this class of subjects is in history, ancient or modern. I need not now or here enumerate the great list of illustrious names which have been chosen as the subject of countless school declamations, college addresses, graduating orations and public speeches.

My object, however, in presenting some ideas, is not to discuss the matter in its broad bearings, but my province is to offer a few suggestions which will be peculiarly appropriate to us as Native Sons, and as young men who feel a pride, not only in the great names of our own land, but also of our own State, and, coming still nearer, of our own community.

In a few words, if I were to announce my text, I should declare that in our own times, and in our own State, there have been, or are now, examples of lofty ideal, of greatness or of ability, who can properly be referred to with pleasure and profit, even if, to a certain extent, they do not shine out as stars of magnitude in the firmament of history.

I saw announced, only lately, that a paper would be read by Henry E. Highton, of San Francisco, on the "Poetry of California." I considered it a novelty, but a splendid venture, this tribute to the verses of our own people. I subsequently read the account of this lecture in the daily press, and it made a profound impression upon me. Here for the first time were the beauties of our own poets displayed to our own eyes. Homer, Virgil, Shakespeare and Milton, Tennyson and Longfellow, have each their niche in the temple of fame, but what for the songs of our own western land, in which perhaps, though in lowly places, has been kindled the fire of genius. We seem to regard that a good thing must come from antiquity, or that a great man must be seen from a distance, either of time or space. The little child, as we all have read, asked his father how big was Alexander, so that people call him great. Was he like old Goliath tall, his spear a hundred-weight? To the boy's mind the warrior of the past must have been a colossus. So men are but children of a larger growth. They look back over the centuries and magnify every act and name therein recorded; they look over to Europe and decide that America has no men to compare with her statesmen and generals, and we, in California, look to the East and decide that we have no men of equal calibre with those intellectual giants who represent the original States in Congress or in affairs. How time and distance act as a lens for all things!

It was in an Eastern magazine that I learned from a distinguished critic that our townsman, the late Professor E. R. Sill, was to America what Shelley was to England, and I only wish that the limits of my time might permit of a reading of some of his lines—even if only his poem on "Death." I would almost ask how many of you have been reading the Century magazine. If you had, I should like to ask who was the greatest man of modern times. Your answer would not be Napoleon or Wellington or Cromwell or Washington but I know it would be Abraham Lincoln, and I have myself only lately made the discovery. I hesitate to refer to this man, as the circumstances of his life's work and death were such as to enshrine him permanently in the valhalla of illustrious names and to have him popularly regarded as above criticism. But I mention his name, not to thereby appeal to your hearts or your impulses, but to emphasize the fact that we need to be informed of our own great men—we need education as to those who live and die among us. If what is now said of Lincoln by his biographers is in any respect fair or true, he is indeed grand beyond his age. I always finish a chapter of his life with a feeling of profit, of reverence, and of joy that I had not missed this acquaintance.

As in this case, information was necessary for due appreciation, so it is necessary to properly understand more of other men of our nation and of our State. Aaron Burr's is one of the most fascinating and instructive of lives to me. He strongly appeals to me, and I have studied him extensively. I presume I first made his acquaintance in our old common reader, where there is given a part of William Wirt's address at the trial of Burr for treason. He was more like Napoleon than any other American, and, while his end was a tragic failure, it is eloquent with teaching. And yet, generally speaking, how little Aaron Burr is known today! These men are great in a broader sense, but may there not be others who are eminent or distinguished to a lesser degree in our own State and community? I have heard one of the leading attorneys of this city in public speech on several occasions draw for his example and illustrations, not from the classics nor from history, but from the lives of men whom he has known personally in this State. I have heard him eloquently refer in a period of address, not to Grant, or to Garfield, or to Blaine, but to Henry Durant, to John B. Felton, to General Baker, and to Thomas Starr King. The effect was singularly pronounced, and indicated on his part loyalty of heart, although in his daily life he appears somewhat cold and harsh. He referred, in his periods, to the men of our own State, or whom he had known, leaving others, in their loftier flights, to refer to the world's and the nation's heroes.

I mention this because it is, unfortunately, the exception, and yet how effective and how strong the appeal. Some months ago, the bar of this county assembled in one of the rooms of the Superior Court in order to pass resolutions out of respect to the memory of the late Judge W. H. Glascock. Several addresses were made, relative to his career, his life and character. The effect upon all was marked and I presume all heard them with feeling and with profit. Here was one Judge Glascock, who in a strict sense was not a great man, nor was he in any respect famous. And yet what a wealth of instruction of character, of noble impulse, of contentment, his life afforded as shown by these addresses. The attorney first above alluded to delivered a remarkably impressive speech, until all who listened marveled of the general necessity of drawing from the past history for our examples of men, when in our midst live some, if not many, fitted to point a moral or adorn a tale. Sometimes I would almost suggest that instead of the usual funeral service, several friends of the deceased should discuss his life, his character, his trials and his hopes. For I venture the assertion that there is no man, no matter how lowly or unfortunate, but that his career, failures or successes may not be considered with instruction and benefit. What Carlyle says of great men is, in a measure, true of humanity, that men taken up in any way are profitable company—we cannot look, however imperfectly, at one without gaining something by him. Every memorial service is an occasion of lasting benefit to many. I have been to several, both for young and old. You would be surprised how much of interest can truthfully be said of men not nationally known to fame. I listened to the memorial services of the late Dr. Thomas Guard, a truly great man, and an orator second to none then or now living. This man's life and character were like a glorious diamond, viewed variously from different sides, but always refulgent and grand. I recollect Dr. Guard once told me, in reply to a question, that the best book for a young man to read was Foster's Essays on Decision of Character. I followed his advice, and in addition to that, I would say, read next, Emerson's Essays on Great Men. I mention this eminent divine because these men are not like meteors, gone forever. We have others in varying degrees always with us. We need not alone pursue the pages of history for pleasing acquaintance.

The pulpit always furnishes men more or less instructive or great. The pastor of the Congregational Church of this city has a wonderful personal influence over young men. He is an open volume on the beauties of nature. I had the privilege of a somewhat extended trip with him this year, and he almost equals the intimacy of John Muir with the flora, fauna, and geology of our State. There is a singular dignity in his affectionate reverence for Mount Shasta, that white monarch of the north. He loves the waters that flow from its snows, and seemingly exemplifies his belief in Bryant's words that "the groves were God's first temples." These things indicate the man.

In the pulpit of the Methodist Church there is one who obtains to greatness. In him we have with us, entertaining him almost unawares, the equal perhaps at times of Beecher and Scudder, and the easy superior of Talmage, all of whom I have heard. Were he in New York the metropolitan journals perhaps would recognize him as such. Passing by his conceded power of oratory, his discourses are marvels of apt quotations from classics, ancient and modern, and abound in a wealth of historical incident and reference. I refer to these men and pay them the same tribute, regardless of religion, as I would to Cardinal Newman, Monsignor Capel, or any distinguished churchman of conceded fame.

The editor of one of the San Francisco morning journals, who lives with us, is a remarkable man. True, he has, as far as I know, never held an office, but a mind charged as is his with knowledge upon any theme and subject, and coupled with the gift of apt expression, stamps him as far above the ordinary. I might here suggest that the principal of our Oakland High School is justly conceded to rank second to none on this coast as a successful educator and manager of the youth of all kinds. And thus I might go on and present to your mind examples of men in our very midst who are pre-eminent or confessedly entitled to wider recognition in the various walks, occupations, and professions of life.

I have given a few local instances above referred to, not because they in any degree exhaust the list, but I have thereby endeavored to emulate in us, as young men born in this State, a higher appreciation of the men about us, and to give impulse to a higher local pride; a pride that raises one's country to the first place, that names one's State as the best in that country, and one's community as the best in that State. We ought not to require outsiders to show us these things. I myself must confess that I never properly appreciated the United States of today until I had read Gladstone's essay on America.

But let us now begin an investigation for ourselves of all this. The result cannot but raise our patriotism and satisfy us that other places have not all the best men. Let there be more research like the instance first alluded to, when I spoke of the lecture on the poets and poetry of California. There is a great field here, on the statesmen of California, the educators of California, the bar, the press, the pulpit of California, the scientists, the historians, the inventors of California. This will be a benefit, if nothing else, but above all it will educate pride and will convince us that we indeed live in a good time and in a good place.

HEAT AND POWER.

The Distribution of Steam for Cooking, Heating and Power.

Dr. I. C. Bishop, President of the American Steam Company of New York, made an interesting address yesterday in San Francisco on the distribution of steam for cooking, heating and power. Among those who were in attendance to hear Dr. Bishop were N. W. Spaulding, J. A. Waymire, Albert Doble and John P. Irish. In New York steam has been distributed by pipes since 1882, with the greatest success. It is there used for cooking purposes as well as for heat and power. The largest restaurant in that city, feeding 10,000 people daily, has never had a fire, using steam for all purposes. Steam may readily be carried three and four miles without losing power. The loss by condensation is only from 2 to 8 per cent. In distributing gas the loss is much greater, from 14 to 20 per cent. The steam is carried in lap welded, wrought iron pipes, encased in asbestos, with an outer covering of wood. The steam system has been demonstrated in Eastern cities to be thoroughly practicable, contrasting greatly to the hot water systems that have been tried in Boston and Washington.

There are now fifty plants for steam distribution in successful operation in this country and it is proposed to establish one in San Francisco and possibly one in Oakland.

MARRIED.

GATES-REED—In this city, December 4, by the Rev. Dr. Hille, Alvah Gates and Della V. Reed, both of Oakland.

A MINNEAPOLIS Building and Loan Association which employs 2500 men and women and has deposited in two years over a million and a half dollars of realty mortgages with the State Auditor, and has never been obliged to foreclose a mortgage, with 285,000 shares in actual force, has made a profit of over 21 per cent. per annum, while its funds have been loaned at 6 per cent, has aroused the jealousy of many of its rivals. The best gauge of merit is success, and the "American" is surely enjoying it. Their office in this city is at 468 Ninth street.

Why the Oaklands Won.

It was brawn that won the pennant for Oakland over all the clubs of the State League, and they would never have had such strong muscle were it not for the fact that they ate meat from N. Y. Stewart's Clinton Meat Market, at 511 East Twelfth street, a place patronized by everybody in the city who knows what good meat is. Try him once and you will never have occasion to regret it.

SAVE YOUR MONEY,

IMPROVEMENTS.

A few Wonderful Improvements Going on in Oakland.

Such as the Y. M. C. A. building, the New Crellin Hotel, new street car lines and that enterprising express company, the Whitney, Standard and Oakland Transfer Company. Wonderful skill in running forty wagons, for checking baggage at your house, and handling your furniture and other goods, and their driver's nobby caps. We lead, others follow. All at 422 to 424 Ninth street.

What is Better Than the Best?

What is better than a reliable time piece?—one that is always correct and to be relied upon. The best watches known in Oakland are kept by John Frey of 1768 Seventh street, which are the old reliable railroad watches, in solid silver and gold cases, guaranteed for a life time when kept properly cleaned. Mr Frey has been established 17 years in the jewelry business, and all representations by him can be relied upon. He also carries a large stock of diamonds and every thing in the jewelry line.

Coal.

A present made of your order if it does not hold out weight or if you do not get the kind of coal you buy at the Old Reliable Coal Yard, M. M. Bridges, corner Sixth and Washington streets, near Broadway Depot. All kinds of coal and wood sold at the lowest market price. You can depend on your weight and money's worth at any time. Don't forget the place, and try him.

IRVINGTON

Is the center of a rich agricultural district, occupied by an intelligent and enterprising community. The view from Irvington extends many miles along the San Jose valley, and embraces the larger part of the bay of San Francisco and the shores and villages beyond. In the background, at a distance of a few miles, rises the mountain range which forms the eastern boundary of the valley. A more inviting and appropriate location, with a range of scenery so wide and varied, cannot be found in the State. It may be said that no portion of the Pacific Coast offers so many inducements to strangers in search of desirable homes as does this section. To the farmer it is a section where no long winters come to consume the summer's profit; a section where the soil is rich, warm and lasting; a section equable and healthful; climate of pleasant days, cool and invigorating nights; a section where the wheat, barley and oats grow side by side with the orange, lemon, nut, fig and olive; a section where homes can be made as beautiful as along the shores of the Mediterranean; a section where railways insure rapid and cheap transportation of products to the metropolis of the State.

Irvington is the seat of Washington College, a large and well conducted school. The institution sustains business and academic departments of superior grade, and is recognized as one of the most prosperous schools around the bay.

STATE COLLEGES.

Studies and Sports at the University of California.

Willis, ex '90, visited college yesterday.

The weather has a dampening effect upon tennis.

The Academic Council met as usual yesterday afternoon.

Montague, '91, passed Thanksgiving with Beard, '91, at Napa.

A number of Lieutenant Harrison's military friends called upon him yesterday.

Junior Day invitations are now to be had by members of '91 who have paid their assessment.

In the bicycle races at Napa Lakeman and Townsend secured four medals between them.

The mid year examinations will begin January 23, 1890. The second term will begin February 6th.

The driveways about the university grounds have been rolled, a proceeding hitherto neglected but much needed.

McClangry, '93, was "best man" at the wedding of Mr. Toll, the wheelman of Sacramento, on Thanksgiving Day.

The Blue and Gold editors and managers of '91 have fitted up the former "co-operative" office as their sanctum.

Two rooms in the south end of the third floor of North Hall have been fitted up for Professor Gayley and his English classes.

Miller, formerly '92, has returned from Mexico where he has been for several months. He will return to college next September.

Hutchinson, '89, has given up the study of the law. At present he is pursuing a brief experimental course in the chemical laboratory.

Nearly all the material for the new chemistry building is upon the ground. Preparations for the laying of the foundations are now in progress.

Junior Day will be a week from Saturday. "Hamlet in College," a four act farce, is to be presented on that day, and is now being written by a member of the class.

The Students' Congress will meet this evening in Literary Hall. The new ministry, under J. D. Rideout '90, will introduce a bill proposing the placing of the telegraph and telephone system under governmental control.

Likens and Dornin of '89, who were prevented from graduating with their class, have passed all their examinations and will be recommended for their degrees to the Regents. The latter body will probably hold a special meeting next week.

The proposed revision of the term and vacation schedule is still under the consideration of the council. It cannot come before the Academic Senate till May, 1890, when that body next will meet. It will then have to be passed upon by the Regents, and it is doubtful if it will go into effect by August, 1890, as intended.

On Saturday the U. C. team will play the E. and O. E.'s on the Alameda grounds. This will be the first game of the amateur league. The U. C. team will be composed strictly of students and will be as follows: White, Allen, Cornwell, Gallagher, Simpson, Adams, Latham, Baldwin, Davis.

Thanksgiving Day was a great day for the college athletes. The winning of the pennant next season at the championship games now seems an assured fact. In every race that a university man entered Thursday he secured a position, notwithstanding that in every instance he was placed at scratch or heavily handicapped. More than half the prizes were won by the U. C. representatives, notwithstanding that in a number of events the university was not represented at all.

Now that Field Day and the Olympic games are passed, athletic interest at the university will henceforth be centered in football and an occasional baseball game. This is the season for football. The ground is in splendid condition and practice will begin immediately. The "U. C." recognizes the fact that if she wishes to maintain her superiority in this sport this season against the powerful outside organizations, she will have to exert herself as she has never before done. Nobody considers the task an impossible one, and all look forward to the end of the season when the college team will issue from the contest victorious.

I have been afflicted with a complication of diseases for five years and spent hundreds of dollars for treatment; was troubled with Dropsy, Rheumatism, and Kidney Complaint so badly that I was compelled to quit business. Your Electro-Germicide has done wonders for me and now, though 60 years of age, I feel almost young again. Have worn porous plasters all the time for several years, but now I do not need them and instead of being tired out with walking two blocks I can walk several miles easily. I can only attribute the improvement in my health to your medicine, and will recommend it to my friends. Am well known in Sacramento and other towns on this coast. Anyone wishing to verify this statement can call at my residence, No. 496 Sixth street, between Broadway and Franklin.

VINEGAR BITTERS

PURELY VEGETABLE FREE FROM ALCOHOL

DR. WALKER'S CALIFORNIA

EUREKA

VINEGAR BITTERS

For twenty-five years the experience of millions of sufferers, old and young, male and female, have greatly endorsed the miraculous values of

This Pharmaceutical Paradox of the Age.

A vitalizing stimulant without alcohol. A nerve sedative without narcotics. A blood purifier without poisons. A liver cleanser and not cathartic. A purely vegetable tissue-maker, promoting digestion, nutrition, secretion, excretion and respiration. A life-giving tonic, pure and simple, without the disastrous reactions of the deadly compounds of rum and alcohol usually sold as bitters.

Was Never Known Before in the World.

Its discovery among the medicinal fruits roots and herbs of California

WAS A MIRACLE

and their combination into a phenomenal life-giving tonic

A TRIUMPH of the CHEMICAL ART.

The only change made in the formula during twenty-five years has been to present in two combinations.

The old original remain unchanged, but being stronger, more laxative and better. A new form more agreeable to the taste and better adapted to delicate women and children, but comprising the same tonic properties, is now made and the science of the world is challenged to produce the equal of this

TRULY & ONLY TEMPERANCE BITTERS KNOWN

or to produce a purely vegetable bitters or medicine of any kind, whose action is at once so safe, so certain and comprehensive as the

CALIFORNIA VINEGAR BITTERS, or any compound which from its varied action upon the vital functions is equal to the

CURE OF SO MANY DISEASES.

Their name is legion—Rheumatism, Neuralgia, Catarrh, Jaundice, Kidney Disease, Scrofula, Skin Diseases and Boils, Consumption, Piles and all disorders arising from indigestion, impure blood, nervous prostration, and dilapidated constitution from any cause give way to it like mist before the sun, while its singular power over

THE DEADLY MICROBE AND OMNIPRESENT BACTERIA

indicates its superiority in all diseases of malarial origin, and renders it the BEST VERMIFUGE KNOWN.

No family can afford to do without a bottle of OLD AND NEW STYLE VINEGAR BITTERS in the house, as expressed by thousands of testimonials. Send for beautiful book. Address

MILK WHEN PLACED IN SEALED jars, while warm and fresh from the cows, has the following advantages:

1.—IT IS MORE CLEANLY, not being exposed to blow-dust or dirt, or to the dripping wet hands of the driver.

2.—ITS QUALITY MAY BE SEEN AT A GLANCE—the cream and color is itself guaranty.

3.—IT WILL KEEP SWEET LONGER because in transportation the bottles will not churn the milk; there can be no churning.

4.—THE FLAVOR IS BETTER, because it is void of the metallic flavor caused by the action of the temperature and churning of the milk in the tin cans.

Young Massie, the Man Who Was Not Sure.

A JURY FINDS THE ARTIST GUILTY.

An Attempt to Make a Scandal—The Charge and the Explanation That Was Made.

The time of the Police Court for the entire day, the attendance of three attorneys, two families, half a dozen police officers, the Chief of Police, the Secretary of the Board of Public Works, the City Clerk and two scores of jurors were required, all because one man said "damn" to another. It was the case wherein J. A. Massie was accused of disturbing the peace of Mr. and Mrs. John Heath, who lived next door to Massie on Twenty-third street, near Webster street.

The examination of the jury took the greater part of the day and consisted principally of inquiring whether the jurors had read the accounts in THE TRIBUNE and what effect they had made upon them. Dave Ho[illegible] of the San Francisco paper [illegible] does not know anything about Oakland affairs. Pat McG[illegible] said that so far as he knows he is not the father of a family, but as he and H. J. Oates had dealings with the Board of Public Works and [illegible] Mr. Fitzgerald is the attorney for the prosecution, they were excused.

The case was marked by [illegible] between counsel.

"Why don't you [illegible]" asked Deputy [illegible].

"You want a [illegible]" replied Mr. Chau[illegible].

"If you want [illegible]" retorted [illegible].

"You [illegible]" said Mr. [illegible].

But [illegible] around [illegible].

But [illegible] and [illegible] out of [illegible] has been [illegible] Heath [illegible] went so [illegible] pelled [illegible] Mr. Heath [illegible] Massie [illegible] guage [illegible] fendant [illegible].

The [illegible] Massie's [illegible] very [illegible] was [illegible] said [illegible] might [illegible] Mrs. Massie the [illegible] "damn" [illegible] she [illegible] to show [illegible] because [illegible] agreed [illegible] Mr. Heath.

After [illegible] man [illegible] what [illegible] that it was that [illegible] Mrs. Heath kissing [illegible].

Then Mr. [illegible] man [illegible] that Massie [illegible] but when, where, or how he could not tell. He tried to tell [illegible] stories at [illegible] Mrs. Heath [illegible] little lady was put on the stand. She characterized [illegible] and explained that her [illegible] and her cousin, now in Europe, [illegible] at about the time that Mr. Massie described this [illegible] at her house.

Then Mr. Fitzgerald began his argument, in which he painted young Massie in colors more vivid than [illegible] young artist ever used. He branded him as a perjurer, and one who tried to besmirch a lady's name to shield himself. He said that if Massie had seen such an affair as he had described he would have been telling it to every one he met. It was a bitter argument, and the jury found [illegible] guilty.

Massie was not sentenced this morning, he requesting postponement until tomorrow.

ALAMEDA.

The Bonds for All Purposes Declared Carried.

At the adjourned meeting of the City Trustees last evening the returns of the bond election were canvassed. Four ballots were rejected as illegal, reducing the total number of votes to 650. All the propositions received two-thirds of this number, and an ordinance was introduced declaring that all the bonds were carried, and ordering the issuance of the amount of 5,000.

The Street Superintendent has been instructed to fill with broken rock all the holes in the Webster street roadway, and how to put this road in good condition and to keep it so is the problem which the City Trustees have requested City Engineer Poyser to solve.

The father of Police Officer Kamp died [illegible] San Jose last Monday.

F. Holtz, the only son of Justice Holtz, died yesterday at his residence on Webster street of heart disease, with other complications. He was [illegible] years of age and leaves a widow and [illegible]. He was a native of San Francisco, and had resided in Alameda for about [illegible] years. He was the first President of Alameda Parlor, No. 47, Native Sons of the Golden West, and a member of the Alameda Lodge of Masons, and of West End Lodge, No. [illegible], Workmen.

One of the Perrin brothers who conduct the Bank saloon, was accidentally locked in the vault by the other brother. The combination was turned, and the outside brother, when he became aware of what had happened, was so excited that the combination for the time being passed from his mind. After an hour's delay the door was opened.

The "oldest" house in Alameda is no more. It became a victim to the wind, and fell with a crash, and lies a complete wreck. What was reported to be the oldest house in Alameda stood on the line of San Jose avenue, between Lafayette and Union streets. The oldest resident of Alameda remembers it as standing when he came here, and the oldest resident is numerous. The lumber used in its construction is said to have come from Chili, and the building is said to have been erected in the early part of [illegible]50. It was an old landmark and presented a picturesque appearance in its location amid a grove of oak trees. The last occupants of this historical building were Chinese gardeners. They moved out a few months ago and since then it has been deserted. It was a mere shell and the stiff breeze which blew over the Encinal yesterday leveled the landmark to the earth.

Mrs. Nelson has been conducting a restaurant at the corner of Webster street and Railroad avenue for a few months past, and her husband has been working on the outside as a laborer. He went to Petaluma a couple of weeks ago, and when he returned he found that a teamster named Perrier, employed at the Clark Pottery Works, had taken a husband's place to his wife. Quite a stir was created in the West End when these facts became known. Mrs. Nelson has two little children and this fact has increased the intensity of the scandal.

The property owners of Pacific avenue will hold a meeting in the old Town Hall, Webb avenue, Friday evening.

ITS LABORS.

Criticism of the Work of the Grand Jury.

The Political Significance of the Report—The Treatment of Oakland Matters.

TO THE TRIBUNE: The Grand Jury has at last reported the results of its labors for the past two months. The document is a [illegible] one in some respects. It may be [illegible] the Grand Jury an injustice to say that it has assumed a political [illegible], but at least it has a political [illegible] to it that has a peculiar [illegible] on the present government of the city of Oakland. It [illegible] that part of the city government [illegible] brought the charter and the [illegible] government into existence. [illegible] the Council for the condition of streets and sidewalks, charging [illegible] has become a disgrace to the city, as if the Council had the right and the power to [illegible] without [illegible] of property owners. It [illegible] the fact that at no period in the history of the city has so much street work been in progress as there is at present. It says the principal streets should be paved with bituminous rock or basalt blocks, as if the principal streets were not being so paved as rapidly as the work can be legally executed. [illegible] that it has [illegible] increased the number of officers and the sum total of expenses without [illegible]. The Grand Jury has evidently not inquired into the matter of [illegible], nor into the accounts, or it would have ascertained [illegible] the salaries of the various departments of the city government have been [illegible] increased under the new system, with [illegible] saving to the public treasury as compared with the [illegible] of previous years. The report [illegible] a failure to carry [illegible] into effect [illegible] to the perplexing [illegible] departments of the city government [illegible]

[illegible]

[illegible] railroad embankment, which was called to the attention of the authorities by the last Grand Jury, but no attention has been paid to their request for its removal. And yet the Grand Jury [illegible] have done it must have known that the statement was a falsehood.

The [illegible] of the Grand Jury's report thus referred to in the foregoing may be multiplied, so far as they relate to the conduct of city affairs under the management of the present authorities. But enough has been quoted to show how superficial has been their investigation and how incorrect their findings. We don't have to go very far to search for the source of the inspiration of many of these inaccurate, unjustifiable and unwarranted representations. TAXPAYERS [illegible].

DEMANDS DAMAGES.

Isabella Nichol Sues the Southern Pacific Company.

A few months ago Isabella Nichol stepped off the local train near Fruit Vale station and fell into a creek, receiving painful injuries. The car on which she was a passenger stopped on a bridge, and as it was dark she did not notice that she was stepping upon nowhere and fell into the creek. She now alleges that the servants of the Southern Pacific Company were negligent, and to-day brought suit to recover [illegible] damages.
